

Weber, Tri-City Bar exchange barbs

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Harsh words between the Tri-City Bar Association and State's Attorney Don Weber are nothing new since Weber took office, but the recent grand jury investigation into the abuse of drugs in local high schools has produced fighting which more closely resembles the famous feud between the Hatfields and McCoys.

"Grandstanding" and "non-professional handling" are words used by the bar association in describing Weber's actions. Weber's response was even more colorful as he contended that Tri-City barristers are little more than drinks and high-rolling card players.

The latest incident concerns a resolution passed by the Tri-City Bar Association at its April meeting at Charlie's Restaurant in Granite City. Signed by Robert W. Bosslet, bar association secretary, the resolution criticizes Weber's conduct during the investigation and the way in which his office handled the grand jury.

According to the resolution, which was passed April 22, but not released until Tuesday, Weber's conduct "amounted to and amounted to very non-professional handling of a matter which deserves much more serious and contemplated consideration."

Weber had not yet seen the resolution when he was contacted by the Press-Record yesterday, but was obviously

'Non-professional,' the bar alleges.
Drunks, high rollers, Weber replies enraged. "I'm surprised anybody (from the Tri-City Bar Association) was sober enough to write a letter," Weber stated.

He seemed particularly disturbed by the association's comment that he had conducted the investigation in an unprofessional manner. "I've been to a couple of their meetings, but I quit going because of the unprofessional manner in which they are conducted."

The investigation was conducted in an attempt to stop the sale and distribution of drugs in local high schools. Perhaps the most controversial aspect of the probe was the use of police dogs to sniff school lockers for marijuana.

Juveniles also were called before the Madison County Grand Jury to testify on their knowledge of the sale and use of drugs in area schools.

Weber said he takes little note of what the Tri-City Bar Association says and warned that "they really ought to be more concerned about the big money card games they have after their meetings." Weber, who claims a hard-line stance against gambling in the county, made reference to "illegal" card games twice in the conversation, saying he feels the Tri-City Bar Association should clean up the games before condemning others.

Both Weber and Assistant State's Attorney Randy Massey, who was involved in the investigation, remain adamant in their contention that the probe was conducted properly.

Massey said he feels the bar association is entitled to its own opinion regarding the investigation. "We considered the action very carefully.

Everything we did followed the law of the state of Illinois.

The rights of all individuals involved in the investigation were carefully protected, Massey said.

Weber said he was "galled" by the resolution because the bar association "is a hot bed of liberal, Democratic lawyers. I happen to be a conservative Republican."

He termed the resolution a "political play" and said it goes beyond the Democrat vs. Republican aspect. "It's conservatives against liberals and prosecutors against defenders."

Tri-City Bar Association members could be responsible for defending some of those indicted in the investigation, Weber noted.

TV 'freaks out' star

Winifred Freedman's mother has decided her daughter should marry Steven Spielberg, director of "Jaws," "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and a score of other smash films. Nothing Miss Freedman says can dissuade her mother from this idea.

Rather than marry Spielberg, Miss Freedman, a 24-year-old actress born and reared in Granite City and the daughter of Dr. Melvin J. Freedman and Mrs. Julie Freedman, would settle with simply working for him.

She could be well on her way, having made a sizeable mark on the TV industry. "The part about being on a TV show still freaks me out," she confesses.

Starting this fall, the pilot "Joanie Loves Chachi," in which Miss Freedman plays the part of Annette, will become a series appearing Thursday evenings at 7 p.m. on ABC. The new series is a spin-off from the popular "Happy Days" show and rated fifth best for the week and rated fifth best for the week. She also will appear in a small role in "The Last American Virgin," a feature film to be released late this summer.

Besides the pilot becoming a series and working on the movie, Miss Freedman has moved to Los Angeles, Calif., hired an agent, bought a car, worked a "9 to 5" job in media advertising and adjusted to an entirely different lifestyle—all in less than a year.

"Once I made one change, the rest came easily," Miss Freedman said. Making the first step in this transitional process was the most difficult for Miss Freedman, who graduated in 1975 from Granite City High School South. She graduated from Northwestern University in Chicago in 1979 with a degree in speech and drama. Knowing Los Angeles was where she had to be in order to become a successful actress, Miss Freedman made the decision to move.

It was an overwhelming culture shock. "For a year I didn't do anything. I had a little office job," she said.

Realizing her career was not advancing, Miss Freedman, readjusted her thinking and set about finding an agent. It was not long after that when she was told of an audition for "Joanie Loves Chachi." During the hour she read for the part, about a dozen other young actresses were present, all vying for the same spot. In all, about

Eftimoff on county board

Vasil Eftimoff, 57, Granite City, was appointed yesterday to the District 21 position on the Madison County Board. The appointment is effective from Nov. 30, and he is the Democratic nominee in the Nov. 2 election.

County Board Chairman Nelson Hagmann of Granite City named Eftimoff at Wednesday's June board meeting to a vacancy created by the resignation last week of Daniel Partney, who did not seek re-election after eight years on the board.

Upon being nominated by Hagmann and confirmed by the board Wednesday, Eftimoff was officially seated as a member. He was named to two committees on which his predecessor served, Central Services and Delinquent Taxes. Succeeding Dan Partney as Central Services Committee chairman was Richard Peck, a board member from Nameoki Township.

Eftimoff is administrative assistant for pupil personnel services in Granite City Community Unit District Nine. He plans to retire from that position June 30, 1983.

He captured the Democratic primary in March, winning the nomination over Robert E. Gaughan and Joseph R. McGinness Sr. His board campaign is self-financed.

In campaigning for the board nomination, he pledged to "work hard and be cooperative with other board members and governmental bodies."

Robert L. Wydra, director of planning for the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission, was selected as to fill the newly-created position of assistant to Carl Rant, manager of the Tri-City Regional Port District in a meeting of the board Monday night.

Although it was not a unanimous vote of the board, Wydra was assumed the duties of the position effective on Aug. 1, at a salary of about $30,000, a year. The exact salary figure will be the subject of a salary agreement, according to Rant.

All board members agreed on the selection except for Board Secretary John Belkoff and Walter "Buck" Simmons, who voted against the motion, and new member Howard Silas, who abstained.

Volting for the hiring was Wydra's uncle, Dale Arnette, Board Chairman Homer Huber and members Harold Fischer and Kent Holsinger. Wydra received his college education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in earth sciences and history in 1965 and a master of science degree in urban and regional planning-community and economic development in 1969.

He also received special training at St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., in 1965 as a member of the American Peace Corps and worked as a community development and poultry extension advisor in Israel and India while with the Peace Corps.

Wydra has been employed in his current position since October, 1969. In this capacity, he has been responsible for the design of the commission's overall work program, its direction, production and completion. He assigns, monitors and supervises a staff of 45 professional and support personnel.

This effort entails carrying out technical-financial negotiations, individual project and overall agency budgets, preparation of program applications, coordinating the work of departments and acting as a liaison with federal, state, metropolitan, regional and local governments and development organizations and interests.

Wydra was president of the SIUE

Branch, National Geographic Fraternity, received an outstanding service award in Student Activities at SIUE, was named citizen of the month by WKTH radio, is a charter member of The American Planning Association and received a certificate of Appreciation for Expertise and Performance from the president, Southwestern Planning Commission, and is vice-president of the St. Louis Chapter, American Planning Association.

The 38-year-old Glen Carbon resident also was nominated for the Danforth Foundation Leadership Program, received certificate of appreciation from the late President Lyndon B. Johnson in recognition of excellence in Peace Corps service, and has attended many professional conferences, workshops and short courses related to planning, governmental management and economic development.

In other business the board approved a bid from Atlas Construction Co. of St. Louis in the amount of $87,357 for rail top of the levee to Old Alton Road.

The St. Louis company was one of five companies which submitted bids.

Fire talks stall

Contract negotiations among Granite City firefighters, emergency medical technicians (EMTs) and the city have reached an impasse, according to Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk, chairman of the negotiating committee.

Fisk told aldermen Tuesday that members of the Firefighters Local 253, International Association of Firefighters, AFL-CIO, have apparently backed the pay increase demands of their two negotiating teams headed by President Robert Bell. Bell was attending a firefighters' convention this week and could not be reached for comment.

A representative of the firefighters' union confirmed that members are seeking a two-year contract with a pay hike included in the second year.

Fisk said both the firefighters and EMTs are being offered the same contract terms as all other unions bargaining with the city this year. He said unions are being given a choice of a one-year contract with no wage increase or a two-year contract with a right to reopen negotiations between August, 1982, and May, 1984, for the purpose of negotiating salary and fringe benefits, if the city "comes into any money."

Fisk said the renegotiating provision (Continued on Page 9) homes in those areas were not paid. At that time, the Madison County told a citizens' committee from Cloverleaf-East Madison that Madison would have to have guaranteed payment for fire calls there, if they wanted fire protection resumed.

Nameoki Township Supervisor Harry Briggs said a property tax levy, possible within a fire district, would give residents in that area "a little bit of authority to bargain with Madison."

He said the 300 homes in the district could not quite form a district large enough to function as a fire protection unit of its own.

Don Patterson, a member of the Nameoki Township fire district committee, said about 70 residents met (Continued on Page 9)

About 300 Cloverleaf-East Madison residents, whose request for fire protection was rejected earlier this year by the Madison fire protection district, will hold a special election Saturday to pass or defeat a levy, which may give them enough leverage, as well as money, to reach agreement on a contract with the Madison Volunteer Fire Department.

The residents of those areas will be asked to vote on a proposed maximum 12½-cent tax levy for each $100 of assessed valuation (one-third of market value) of all homes and buildings in the district.

Feds seize video games here

Federal authorities Monday afternoon seized video games at numerous St. Louis metropolitan area businesses, including Buck and Jan's Den in Granite City. Some of the games were distributed by a firm with a Granite City office. A copyright battle is behind the seizures, according to U.S. Marshal William Nettles.

Armed with seizure orders, deputy U.S. marshals entered several area and an undisclosed number in St. Louis Monday and seized the video game "Crazy Kong," a game similar to the popular "Donkey Kong." Among the establishments on the seizure list were Buck and Jan's Den, 24th and State streets, and the KOA Campgrounds on West Chain of Rocks Road in Mitchell.

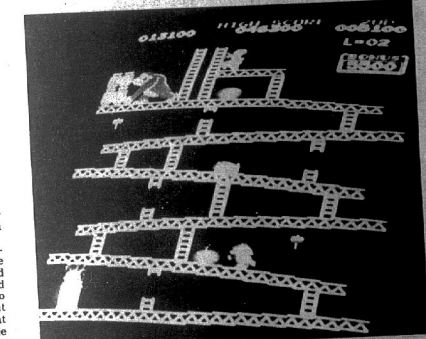

Alerted to the seizure orders, owners of other "Crazy Kong" establishments until it can be determined whether or not they can legally be used. It is determined that "Crazy Kong" is an illegal copy of "Donkey Kong." Partney said he can easily change the game "board" in his machines and redistribute them with a copyrighted game.

Partney has consulted with his attorney and will attempt to get the seized game back, he indicated.

According to U.S. Marshal Nettes, similar seizures of "Crazy Kong" machines are being conducted in Texas, California and in other states. In this area, the seizures were initiated by a civil lawsuit filed in federal court at Benton. The suit is entitled Nintendo (Continued on Page 9)

Warmack acquitted

A self-defense claim proved persuasive to a Circuit Court jury, which deliberated ten hours before acquitting Charles G. "Jerry" Warmack of a murder attempt charge at 11:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Miss Gail Timmon, 16, had testified a week ago of seeing her fiancé, James Woods, 31, of the 2100 block of Delmar Avenue shot in the upper back by Warmack, 36, of the 2800 block of Madison Avenue, at Woods' apartment.

Law enforcement personnel were displeased with the verdict, saying they had assembled much information and evidence.

Warmack was tried in Edwardsville before Circuit Judge A. A. Matosian in the convicted of wounding another.

After Woods had been shot as he went to the kitchen, Warmack next turned the weapon on Miss Timmon and asked if she wanted to die; she said "No" but Ragan urged Warmack to kill her to shooting, she testified.

Ragan was to have been Woods' best man at their planned wedding, the couple related.

Warmack told her to go home and not tell anyone what had happened; she thought Woods was dead and did not summon help, she related. Although seriously wounded, the victim crawled slowly toward a telephone in the apartment, reaching it within 15 to 30 minutes, and called police.

McGivern argued that Warmack wanted to "make peace" and fired the pistol only when he thought Woods was trying to reach a handgun in the kitchen, after Woods locked the apartment door and threatened to kill him.

How to save money on your grocery bills

Here are some important shopping tips

- 1—Check specials in food store advertisements.
- 2—Get to know the butcher and produce manager.
- 3—Find out when deliveries of perishables are made and shop on those days. Fresher foods last longer and consequently, you'll waste less.
- 4—Learn to estimate accurately the amounts of food needed. Keep a record of the amount of food you throw away in a week. It may alert you to ways you can reduce waste.
- 5—For economy and variety, use eggs, dry beans, and peanut butter in place of meat some of the time. These foods provide protein and most other nutrients that meat supplies.
- 6—Use nonfat dry milk, which is less expensive than fluid milk, at least part of the time in cooking and as a beverage.
- 7—By law, economy sizes of non-food items must save you at least 5% over other sizes of the same brand.
- 8—Try to shop as seldom as possible, preferably once a week.
- 9—Always shop with a well thought out shopping list. Try to base your list of foods on your menu for the week.
- 10—Take advantage of the special coupon offers going on at First Granite City Savings in conjunction with your local Schnuck's grocer.

Q. I understand the safety advantage in certificates, but what is the yield advantage of a certificate over a money market fund investment?

A. Yes. An actual case history will answer your question. In the 12-month period ending March 31, 1981, a bank money market certificate would have yielded an average 13.83% for the preceding year. Purchased April 1, 1980, and paying an interest rate of 15.7% annually, it would have been renewed October 6, 1980 at 11.988%, thereby achieving an attractive average. On the other hand, a survey of 77 money market funds for the same period indicates an average yield of 12.7%. The lowest paid 10.9% while the highest paid 13.9%. Further, investment in a certificate on October 31, 1980, and re-investment or roll-over on May 1, 1981, at the end of its 182-day term would have yielded an average return of 13.413% over a twelve-month period. In this example, the advantage is obvious - even without considering the protection of your investment in a bank money market certificate.

Crime in state down during 1981

Crime decreased significantly in Illinois during 1981, according to figures released this week by the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement. Both the crime rate and the total number of serious offenses, called crime index offenses, dropped by more than five percent. Crime index offenses include murder and voluntary manslaughter, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, theft, motor vehicle theft and arson.

Overall, there were nearly 31,000 fewer major crimes reported in Illinois in 1981 than in 1980. Although murder and arson increased slightly, the number of offenses in all other categories went down significantly. Among violent crimes, rape decreased by nearly 10 percent, with 288 fewer cases reported in 1981 than in the previous year. Robberies decreased by 2.6 percent, from 24,551 to 23,920. Aggravated assaults registered the greatest reduction, from 27,000 to 22,768, a decrease of 15.7 percent.

Crimes against property decreased similarly. Police agencies throughout Illinois reported 7,829 fewer burglaries and 13,797 fewer thefts — both down by more than five percent. Auto thefts dropped marginally, down 2 percent, with 56,069 vehicles stolen in 1981 compared to 56,188 the year before.

Department of Law Enforcement Director James B. Zagel remarked that Illinois experienced the greatest drop in its crime rate since 1970. "The figures are especially gratifying," Zagel said, "when you consider the state of the economy. Crime generally increases in hard times, yet we've seen reductions in virtually every kind of criminal offense. I think the drop is a credit to Illinois' entire criminal justice system, from police agencies to courts to corrections facilities."

Every geographic area in the state — city, suburban and rural — showed reductions in reported criminal activity. The reported crime rate for the City of Chicago was down 10.6 percent from 1980, with nearly 20,000 fewer major crimes reported. Total suburban figures indicated a 3.5 percent decrease, as even murder and arson dropped substantially. Rural crime, which has been increasing in recent years, dropped by more than three percent.

New regulations designed to strengthen food program

Final regulations issued last month will strengthen the food delivery system in the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), according to Mary Jarratt, assistant secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The WIC Program provides supplemental foods, nutrition education, and access to health services to about two million women and children up to age 5. Eligibility must be determined by a health professional on the basis of low income and nutritional risk.

Most people eligible for the program receive monthly vouchers valued at about $28, which they redeem at grocery stores. The vouchers are good for specified foods, such as milk, cheese, cereal, juice, eggs and dry beans or peanut butter.

Management evaluations and reviews conducted by USDA and state officials have shown occasional problems in the food delivery systems, such as grocers selling ineligible foods or overcharging the state for foods provided to recipients.

The regulation is one component of a multi-phase effort by the Food and Nutrition Service to improve WIC food delivery systems. This effort includes comprehensive management initiatives and improved technical assistance to states, such as aid in developing computer systems. By preventing vendor abuse and errors, we can ensure that as many participants as possible receive nutritional assistance," Mrs. Jarratt said.

Proposed rules were issued on Jan. 25, 1981, for public comment. The final rules were developed by USDA's Food and Nutrition Service after consideration of 159 comment letters and extensive discussions with state, local and regional offices.

Some significant provisions of the final rule include:

- Establishing strong sanction authority for state use against vendors who abuse the rules.
- Requiring periodic reviews of qualifications of vendors.
- Strengthening vendor monitoring and training requirements.
- Allowing the states to limit the number of authorized vendors.

Equipment upgraded for teaching of word processing, foods, electronics

Upgrading of Granite City School District vocational instruction and equipment has been outlined to the Board of Education by Thomas C. Holloway, director of the district's vocational and career education.

"The year-end report for the Vocational Advisory Council reflects a new approach to upgrading vocational programs. In the past, funds were spent in each vocational area, upgrading the highest priority items within each program.

"As a result, no one person got all it needed, but every program received its share. Using this approach, our programs seemed to fall farther and farther behind in technology.

"This report, for 1981-82, reflects an approach whereby specific vocational programs will be evaluated each year and plans for upgrading will be prepared for board approval by school staff and advisory council members.

"As programs come up for evaluation, specialists in the field will be solicited to join the advisory council for that year.

"We feel that in this way, the most can be accomplished and still stay within the vocational budget," Holloway related.

The newly-completed annual report of the Granite City Vocational advisory Council follows:

"The Vocational Advisory Council, made up of business, home economics, and industrial committees, established a plan of work in September for the school year.

"The business committee earlier saw as a primary goal the need to introduce some form of word processing into the business education department at High Schools North and South. This area was chosen because of the increased demand for qualified operators of word processing equipment.

"As of September 1981, different types of word processing equipment had been evaluated by the business education department and has proven to be too expensive ($4,500 to $6,500 each) to implement. Recent developments in software packaging for microcomputers led the committee to explore the possibility of introducing word processing through microcomputers.

The business committee, chaired by Joyce Sikora, director of word processing at Granite City Steel, met four times during the year. Meetings consisted of demonstrations by microcomputer representatives, evaluation of software packages, and curriculum changes necessary to implement word processing.

"Three machines were evaluated: the Apple II, the Radio Shack TRS-80 and the Commodore 8032. These machines were chosen because they are the only three that the State Office of Education is developing educational software packages for.

"In between council committee meetings, information was gathered by department heads and the vocational director. As the meetings progressed, it became apparent that the three machines were quality computers, but that the Commodore 8032 was by far more adaptable to word processing.

"Final cost estimates indicated that purchase of 20 units would be about $8,000 over the vocational budget. However, in March 1982, the State Office of Education released funds amounting to $6,228 for purchase of vocational equipment.

"At the last meeting of the Advisory Council, it was recommended to seek bids on the Commodore 8032 to present to the Board of Education for purchase.

"The home economics committee spent the year evaluating the vocational foods program. Additional committee members were solicited with expertise in the foods area.

"The committee, chaired by Lois Woods, director of the High School South cafeteria, met four times during the school year to review curriculum, facilities and equipment. Meetings were held at both high schools so that committee members could evaluate each facility.

"One of the main concerns is Lab 206, one of two labs at South.

"This kitchen is operated seven periods per day and the cabinets are 30-plus years old. They are made out of metal and have deteriorated greatly over the last 10 years. Drawers and cabinet fronts are broken off, some drawer guides are inoperable, and cabinets under the sink have rusted out.

"The committee fully understood that the present financial status of the school district and the vocational budget would not allow replacement of the entire kitchen facility.

"Therefore, the committee recommended to replace one or two units each year, depending on funds, with the hope that in five or six years restoration of this lab will be accomplished.

"The industrial committee chose to evaluate the industrial electronics and industrial electricity programs. These programs were chosen because it was felt that they were in the most need of technological updating.

"A total of four electronics and electricity professionals were added to the committee to aid in this evaluation. This committee, chaired by Vince Straubinger, met four times during the year at both North and South to evaluate curriculum, facilities and equipment.

"Vocational electronics was the first area to be looked at. Since upgrading this program had begun the prior year with equipment and software from Aldex Corp., the committee was asked to evaluate whether the program was heading in the right direction.

"The committee overwhelmingly agreed with the program as planned, and recommended completing the sequence of learning activities. The board approved this on March 2.

"Industrial electricity proved to be more involved. Due to the versatility needed by an industrial electrician, it appeared that more equipment was needed than could ever be provided by the existing vocational budget.

"Several trips to trade schools and union training centers, and contracts with electrical instructional supply companies were made.

"Information gathered indicated that most schools with limited budgets purchased one or two pieces of equipment in each instructional area and then rotated it through these pieces of equipment during the semester.

"This way, each student received training in each area but expenditures were held to a minimum. At its last meeting, the committee chose four areas where it felt the present curriculum was lacking.

"It was understood that vocational funds would not allow complete upgrading in one fiscal year, and may take two or possibly three years.

"It was recommended that the following instructional units be added: Direct Current-Electronic Motor Control, Programmable Controller, Fluid Power, and Air-Conditioning," the report concluded.

People can help control the leading cause of death

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

Cardiovascular diseases—high blood pressure, stroke, hardening of the arteries, coronary heart disease, heart attacks—are the leading cause of deaths in the United States.

We now have the data to prove that each one of us has a great deal more control over our own health than we previously thought.

Measures such as controlling high blood pressure, eating prudently, losing excess weight, exercising and reducing the amount of cigarette smoking you do will improve your chances of avoiding cardiovascular diseases.

Early diagnosis and control of high blood pressure is the single most effective way to reduce your chance of incurring a cardiovascular disease.

In fact, there is a consensus among health professionals that, in the long run, prevention and control of high blood pressure is an important method for alleviating human suffering.

Also, it represents a real economic advantage both for the individual and for the economy of the community.

Individuals need to make personal choices. You can control your eating and drinking habits. You can choose not to smoke or overeat. You can decide to exercise. You can learn not to over-react to stress.

Many health professionals are "shouting from the rooftops" that habits can be bad for you.

The responsibility for health is not being placed exclusively with you. But there is a need for you to participate actively in partnership with your physician.

Adults should have their blood pressure checked regularly. There are a number of places you can have this done—a doctor's office, a blood bank, a health center or an American Health Association office.

Since high blood pressure can occur in children as young as three years old, why not have your child's blood pressure checked, too?

One other thing to keep in mind: If you have high blood pressure, and your doctor has prescribed medication for it, be sure to take your medicine regularly in order to keep your blood pressure under control.

Remember, high blood pressure cannot be cured, but it can be controlled.

Those who have further questions about cardiovascular disease may contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Disease Control, 535 W. Jefferson St., Springfield, Ill. 62761.

TV 'freaks out'

30 or 40 others read for the part of Annette.

Because she is superstitious when it comes to talking about auditions, Miss Freedman's parents, with whom she is very close, had no idea she even read for a part in the four-episode trial run of the show.

Ironically, her parents called her the morning of the day she learned she had been chosen for the part. One of the first commercials she made debuted that morning and they phoned to tell her they had seen it and were proud of her. She did not say a word about the audition.

"I didn't want them to know anything until I knew one way or the other. If people know about it they ask about it. Why bother?" As soon as she got the good news, she called her parents, who now live in Creve Coeur, Mo.

At first, Miss Freedman was signed on a weekly basis, never knowing if her character would be in the next episode. Annette always appeared and much of the credit for its success has to be given to Miss Freedman.

"I didn't think the writers knew what they wanted to do with my character. I kept hearing from the beginning, 'the character is about your character, the third episode is about your character.' But that was all she heard. To assist the writers, she wrote a detailed, character profile on Annette, which is very much an extension of Miss Freedman.

"The thing about TV that's different from a play is that with TV, you stop and go. For me, the idea is that you have to get well enough into your character that you can turn it on and off."

The cast members of "Joanie Loves Chachi" understand their characters well enough and have enough confidence in their talents that they often improvise. Miss Freedman said that scripted material is often cut while improvising segments remain.

The stuff that happens in rehearsal is often the funniest, because it's more natural," she says.

As she talked, Miss Freedman was calm and relaxed. She occasionally ran a hand over her thick, wavy hair, gazed upward or played with the top of her socks, which were green and brown striped.

"Luck" was often mentioned in reference to the show. Normally, she said, pilots are viewed by network executives, who then decide the fate of the program without the benefit of an audience reaction. Because "Joanie Loves Chachi" is a Garry Marshall production, ABC executives allowed it to be aired. "I think they felt it might be a sure bet."

It also helped that Scott Baio and Erin Moran (Joanie) have grown up in front of "Happy Days" viewers. "We were real lucky," she said of the cast. "We all clicked."

There have been less fortunate times with other productions. Miss Freedman remembers one instance at Northwestern University in Chicago very clearly. The play was William Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

"I hated every word I spoke. I development of the Metro-East area, zoning, attraction of new industry, development of mass transit, river port development, cooperation with other counties, and a continued floodplain development program.

Effitmo resides at 2900 Michigan Ave. with his wife, the former Anita Kendall, a Granite City teacher. They are planning to move to St. Louis.

Past elective offices held by the new County Board member are: Granite City High School Board of Education, 1949-50; charter member, Granite City Community Unit District Board of Education, 1950-51; and Granite City Democratic committeeman in Precinct 21, 1960-64. A teacher out-of-town while a board member here, he joined the Granite City faculty in 1954.

He was a candidate in 1974 and 1978 for the office of superintendent of the Madison County educational service region.

Born here and a product of the Granite City schools, Effitmo graduated from Granite City High School in 1942 before serving 2½ years with the 13th Armored Division in Europe during World War II.

He earned a bachelor degree from Illinois College, Jacksonville, and a master degree from St. Louis University, continuing his education at the doctoral level at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

Effitmo has served as president of Coordinated Youth Services and the Lincoln Athletic Club and as chairman of Lincoln Place Homecoming.

An Illinois state hearing officer, he formerly served on the Granite City Public Library Board.

A member of the Eastern Orthodox Church and a former Granite City Rotarian, Effitmo is active in the Disabled American Veterans, American Legion, Eagles, Lincoln AC, CYS, St. Louis Ambassadors, Illinois Historical Society, St. Louis Zoo Association, Missouri Humane Society, Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, Council for Exceptional Children, Phi Delta Kappa, Council for Administrators of Special Education and Southwestern Illinois Hearing and Speech Association.

As a hobby, he drives his own limousines at friends' and acquaintances' wedding ceremonies, serving without charge. He has chaperoned about 40 weddings.

reist gushing praise. There are two exceptions. If she ever sees Carol Burnett, her idol, or Bernadette Peters, she has resolved to fling protocol to the wayside.

For the most part, however, she is concerned with keeping her life in perspective. "It's all happened so fast. But it's such an ifty world. Now everything looks fine but we could lose the show and God forbid, it could be cancelled." She knocked on the wooden table in front of her.

Eventually, Miss Freedman would like to own and operate a theatre company. She also would like to content to remain with "Joanie Loves Chachi" for the duration of its run. For her, show business will always be a challenge because there is always some unexpected area.

Fear is not part of her vocabulary and she is certain she will go on to some other aspect of the business like producing, directing or writing. "A lot of people are afraid to fail. Lots of people are afraid to move. So what if you move and you don't like it?"

Her parents also have helped her immensely and supported each move she has made. An extremely close Jewish family ("we have a kosher household"), the Freedmans do not hide the pride they feel in their daughter, the youngest of four children.

Dr. Freedman, who practices medicine in Granite City, took his daughter on his rounds to St. Elizabeth Medical Center yesterday. "My father is more blatant than my mother," she said. "He's my pal."

Perhaps, it is that home atmosphere that puts Miss Freedman's life in perspective the best. "Keeping it in perspective is not difficult for me because the bottom line is I am still Winnie Freedman. That's what I'll always be."

GC MAN POSTS BOND ON VENICE CHARGE

Responding this week to a report of a man arguing with a woman on the parking lot of St. Mark Parochial School, 600 Broadway, Venice, officers arrived at the scene and allegedly saw Michael C. Byington, 28, of 2109 Clark Ave., enter an auto and begin to strike the occupant.

Byington, who was handcuffed and taken to police headquarters, reportedly tried to kick an officer in the chest during the arrest. He was released on posting a $52 cash bond to appear June 25.

is included in the two-year offer to satisfy union members who think funds might "pop up" to offer raises. "It's not there," he said.

The spokesman for the firefighters said union members understand the current financial position of the city but have no way to determine what conditions will be in the future.

Employees of the Wastewater Treatment Plant already have accepted the two-year contract arrangement.

Unlike the firefighters, Fisk said EMTs are asking for a pay increase this year. He said those trained as paramedics have offered to immediately begin work in that capacity, but no additional pay increase, if the EMT raise is granted.

The paramedic program had been scheduled to start here last December, but stalled over salary negotiations.

The program could provide advanced emergency health care by allowing trained paramedics to administer drugs to patients upon doctors' orders received via radio; to operate equipment capable of performing a stimulus to restart the heart.

Fisk said that despite the offer of the equipment, St. Elizabeth Medical Center to monitor a distant accident victim's vital signs.

Fisk said that despite the offer of the city's paramedic-trained EMTs to work without a pay differential from fellow EMTs, if they are offered a raise, the city still has no funds to give.

Port Engineer Jerry LaVelle, explained that the Atlas company bid was $25,000 under his estimate for the repair cost and submitted the low bid of all received by the Port Authority.

Ranf told board members that the cost of the repair operation will be financed by the operating fund and there will be no need to finance the project through a bonding institution.

Ranf reviewed the progress of repaying a $2.75 million loan from the state of Illinois for the new Bulk Terminal planned in 1976. He said that, to date, the facility has paid $887,234 and will have one more quarterly payment to even it out for a complete four-year program.

Patterson said he is almost certain of the successful outcome of the Saturday election. Balloting will be from noon to 7 p.m. Saturday at Trinity Tabernacle Church, 201 Sixth St., Madison.

According to Patterson, preliminary talks have already been conducted with Madison officials and money seems to be the only issue in re-establishing fire protection by the city for East Madison and the Cloverleaf. Subdivision southeast of the McCambridge Viaduct.

If a fire protection protection district is formed, the area can form a three-member board of trustees which could guarantee Madison payment of bills under a continuing fire contract.

The area is now being protected by the State Park Fire Department after the Illinois fire marshal assigned residents to that area as an emergency measure.

of America, Inc., vs. Ben Bradley, doing business as Fun & Games Ltd. Fun & Games has offices in Fairview Heights and Granite City.

The suit also names 10 establishments: KOA and the Den in Granite City, Electric Company, Plaza Bowl, E-Z Stop, Crabtree's Irish Pub and Favors Lounge, all in Belleville; Video Games and Village Bowl in Cahokia and Frank's Market in Caseyville.

According to Nettles, the suit was heard by a federal judge June 10 and a 10-day restraining order was issued, along with orders of injunction for the machines and appointment of a custodian of the machines.

A hearing is to be conducted at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the federal courthouse at Alton to determine if the restraining order should be extended, terminated or other action should be taken.

Bradley was reached at the Granite City office of Fun & Games Ltd. and indicated that he intends to challenge the seizure. Later, however, he would have to come from his attorney, Norman Kinder. Kinder said Tuesday that he was bound for a federal court hearing in Alton, but would not comment on the matter.

U.S. District Court officials at Alton said yesterday's hearing was on a motion filed by William Headland of Alton, Illinois counsel for Nintendo of America Inc., asking that the file on the case be unsealed.

U.S. Judge James L. Foreman in Benton ordered that the case be sealed, keeping the seizure orders secret until the machines were confiscated. U.S. District Judge William Beatty of Granite City, Tuesday granted the motion and ordered the case unsealed.

Cable hike denied; arbitration next

Michael Modrusic, Seventh Ward, to deny the rate hike.

According to South-Western's letter, Edwardsville is the only community in the area that has approved the raise. Later this month, South-Western will be entering arbitration proceedings with the other municipalities covered by the cable company.

Mary Hildebrand, director of community programming, said yesterday that she was not yet ready to comment on the council's vote, but believes Granite City also will be headed towards separate arbitration with the company.

The contract between South-Western and the city states that if the council does not agree with the company regarding the rate increase, a board of arbitrators must be selected. The city and the cable company will select two board members with a fifth to be decided upon by the other four.

The board of arbitrators is obligated to render a decision within 15 days of the first meeting.

South-Western's Comptroller David Olson said the city and the cable company will have to both bear the cost of hiring the five arbitrators and the expense of preparing arguments to present before the board.

2 end nurse training

Capping and pinning ceremonies for 28 student nurses completing their course of studies at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, including two from Granite City, were held recently in the Communications Building theater. Shirley Strohmeyer, undergraduate adviser in the School of Nursing, presided at the ceremonies. Lois M. Cady, assistant dean, gave the welcoming address. Speakers and their topics included Ruby Steele, "Capping, The Light at the End of The Tunnel," Betty Aubuchon, "Steps to The Future Through Steps of The Past," and Barbara Heister, "Graduates of 1982, The Hope of The Future." The speakers are members of the nursing faculty at SIUE. Students received their bachelor of science degrees in nursing from the university during regular commencement exercises June 11. Granite City residents graduating were Patricia Hinds and Beth Clement.

THIEVES PRY SCREENS

A burglar who pried a window screen obtained a $150 pocketwatch last week from the John Logan residence, 2612 Jerden Ave. A similar method of entry was used the same day to burglarize the home of Yelda Lancaster, 2628 Grand Ave., where the items taken included $40 cash, earrings worth $50, another set of earrings and two gold chains.

PLEADS INNOCENT.

$25,000 BONDS SET
At a hearing before Circuit Judge George Moran at 4 p.m. Monday, William H. Childers, 18, of the 2600 block of Lincoln Ave. pleaded innocent to burglary and cannabis possession. Bonds were set at $15,000 and $5,000.

It was alleged he was in the vicinity of Pete and Mary's Tavern, 2409 Lincoln, where a door was found open at 2:28 a.m. June 12.

Alcohol role in various tragedies

By DR. GERALDINE L. BOWER

University of Illinois Madison County Adviser Alcohol plays a part in 50 percent of highway fatalities, 65 percent of murders, 65 percent of drownings, 85 percent of rapes, 50 percent of suicides, 50 percent of felony offenses, and 55 percent of assaults in the home.

But such destructions are not solely caused by "problem drinkers." A study conducted for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration indicated that moderate drinkers often had more car-control problems and run-off-the-road accidents than drunken drivers.

The reason? One theory is that the moderate drinker may be less aware of the effects his drinking has on driving and less afraid of getting caught by the police than the heavy drinker.

Consequently, the moderate drinker may be less careful.

This study demonstrates that it doesn't always take a heavy evening of drinking to impair your driving ability. Even two to three beers will cause mild sedation, exaggeration of emotion and behavior, slight impairment of motor skills and increased reaction time.

"You considered 'under the influence' when the amount of alcohol in your blood reaches 0.10 percent. This measurement is known as the blood-alcohol concentration or BAC and is determined by body weight, the type and number of drinks consumed and the amount of time since the first drink."

Generally, an average 160-pound person's BAC can reach 0.10 if he drinks about five drinks in one hour. One drink is equal to a 12-ounce beer, 5 ounces of regular wine, 3 ounces of sherry or port wine, one ounce of whiskey, or one highball or cocktail.

If you weigh more than 160 pounds, it may take more drinks to reach the 0.10 level. If you weigh less, it may take fewer drinks. When your BAC reaches 0.10, your inhibition and judgment are seriously affected and physical and mental coordination is impaired. At this level, your chances of an accident have increased six times.

The only thing that will bring the BAC back down at time — about 90 minutes.

The myths of gulping coffee and standing in a cold shower are just that — myths. These tactics have no effect on your blood-alcohol content.

There are three ways to make sure you're in safe shape behind the steering wheel: (1) drive but don't drink; (2) drink but don't drive; or (3) drink in moderation if you just must be behind the wheel — and know how long you must wait to drive safely.

SAFETY ACHIEVEMENT AWARD is presented by Granite City Steel operations vice president Ed Sambuchi, dark suit, to Coke Plant superintendent Phil Kalish. Others in the foreground are Ken Whittington of the safety department, left, and Bert Houston Jr. of the Coke Plant, right. Some of the 150 employees earning the safety award for working more than 200,000 manhours without a lost-workday injury are also in the photo. In the background is part of Granite City Steel's newly completed "B" coke battery.

New GC Steel award for safety

The second major safety award of 1982 at Granite City Steel was presented this month to nearly 150 employees of the GC Steel Coke Plant. It marked the official completion on May 4 of a string of over 200,000 consecutive manhours worked without a lost-workday injury. Last month, a similar award went to the Locomotive Repair and Garage department. Known as the GC Steel Safety Achievement Award, the citation includes a special certificate signed by President James V. Stack and safety director Ron Haggerty for the department, as well as souvenir decorative plates for all employees of the department.

To accumulate 200,000 manhours—which is considered equal in scope to the pre-OHSA (Occupational Safety and Health Agency) million-manhour level—the Coke Plant employees worked injury free since Aug. 7, 1981.

"Such an accomplishment despite the many difficult jobs that exist on the overs is quite remarkable," commented Operations Vice-President Ed Sam Buchi as he presented the award to Phil Kalish.

Kalish added, "The safety supervisor assigned to our area, John Huff, has also worked very hard to help us reach this milestone and certainly deserves credit along with our employees." The Coke Plant includes the coke ovens, where coal is baked to form coke, a raw material for the blast furnaces; the byproducts plant, where waste gases are captured and converted to useful chemicals; heating, and coal handling.

Raise price for aluminum cans to 25 cents a pound

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company began paying more for recyclable aluminum as of Tuesday, June 15.

Reynolds is paying the general public 25 cents a pound for all-aluminum beverage cans and certain other aluminum products. The price is effective at the company's St. Louis recycling plant and at 11 other buying locations in the St. Louis area, including the mobile unit in Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center.

Reynolds officials said that the 25-cent price is the highest the firm has paid in the St. Louis area since last August. Most recently, the Reynolds Metals Company subsidiary was paying 23 cents per pound at most area centers.

In addition to all-aluminum cans, Reynolds will pay 25 cents per pound for other clean household aluminum items such as pie plates, foil, frozen food and dinner trays, and dip, pudding and meat containers.

Reynolds will pay 10 cents per pound for certain other miscellaneous items, including aluminum siding, gutters, storm doors and window frames, lawn furniture tubing and castings, provided these items are properly prepared.

The Crossroads Plaza recycling is open from 1 to 3 p.m. each Tuesday through Saturday.

A THRILLING NIGHT was how Bob Turk, right, describes his receipt of the year Award from Bob Glik of Glik's Department Stores, left, during the St. Elizabeth Medical Center annual associate award banquet at the Missouri Athletic Club. The award came with a check for $1,000 from the Glik family. Turk is employed in the Social Work Department of the medical center and was among 16 associates nominated by their co-workers for the award.

Hospitality time begins at 6:30 p.m. with dinner and the program starting at 7 p.m.

Frank Cramer, the new president, members of the Lions and the 1982-83 board of directors will be installed at the dinner, which has become the major social event of the year for the club.

Various local community service agencies will be presented gifts and awards with the highlight of the evening occurring when the Pontoon Beach Citizen of the Year is named.

Due to limited seating, the dinner can be attended only by invitation.

3 win state events in church competition

Three young members of First Free Will Baptist Church won first place in various categories in Free Will Baptist Illinois State Competitive Activities. The winners now qualify for competition at Fort Worth in national competition.

Joanna Steelman won first place in the first grade Bible memorization, John Steelman won first in third grade Bible memorization and vocal solo and James Steelman won first in fifth grade Bible Word Drill. Diana Steelman won second in vocal solo and LaDonna Steelman won second place for keyboard solo.

The church's Bible Tie-Tac-Toe team won fourth place. The team consisted of a particular Bible verse in 15 seconds or less. Bible Word Drill also requires memorizing a pre-established list of names, topics, doctrines and quotes. Bible Tie-Tac-Toe is a game between teams in answering a list of 500 questions and Bible quotes patterned after the common tie-tac-toe game.

The youths compete in various activities designed for first grade through college age, depending on their school grade.

NEED PANTS, PLUS CASH AT BRIDGE TOLL

Plagued by a series of toll runners in the past few weeks, Venice police encountered a new twist at 11:30 p.m. Monday when a motorist paid the 30-cent fee at the McKinley Bridge toll plaza, but still caused the attendant to do a "double take" upon noticing the driver was panless.

Venice officers halted the vehicle and said the driver was wearing only a shirt and tie.

The man, an attorney practicing in Madison County, was admonished for the lack of appropriate clothing, but was not charged.

He was coming from a law library and "didn't want to wrinkle his pants," he explained to the skeptical officers.

Frank Hollenback, 2603 Kirkpatrick Homes, alleged he was driving south on Madison Avenue when Cruse fired a shot at the Hollenback vehicle.

Offer courses on aiding children

Anyone who deals with children could be interested in two courses offered by the department of sociology and social work at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this summer.

The courses are "Communicating with Children," and "Protecting Children from Abuse and Neglect." They are designed to be important to parents, teachers, social workers, lawyers, police officers and others who have a special interest in the well-being of children, according to a department spokesman.

"Communicating with Children" will teach students to understand what a child is really saying or thinking. The course will show ways to communicate better with children in both stressful and non-stressful situations.

"Protecting Children from Abuse and Neglect" will explore causes and kinds of child abuse and neglect. The course also will teach students to counsel those children, and will familiarize students with Illinois laws on child abuse and neglect.

The "Communicating with Children" class will run for five days, June 14 to 19. The Monday through Friday meetings will be from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. The Saturday meeting will be from 9 a.m. until 5:15 p.m. The class may either be taken for four hours of university credit, or a non-credit certificate of completion.

The "Protecting Children from Abuse and Neglect" class was started with a workshop on Saturday, June 12, from 9 a.m. until 5:15 p.m.

The entire course can be taken beginning with the workshop and then continuing with two weeks of classes on Monday through Thursday evenings from 5 until 9, June 14 to 24.

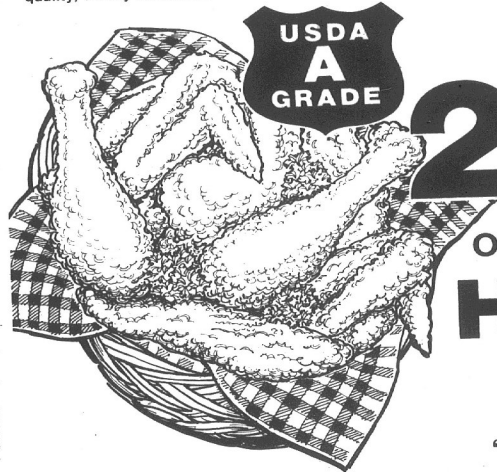

For more information, interested persons may call 692-3712 or 692-3210.

Waterway cost recovery program involves unfairness and it endangers the proposed second new river lock

The federal administration is taking a faulty position regarding the second lock in the Alton lock and dam replacement project, if statements in Washington are correct.

It is being said that the U.S. intends to support the proposed second lock only if all the construction costs can be recovered from user fees, fuel taxes or other private funds.

Although such financing may well be part of the picture, the work itself should not hinge on user funding. The Mississippi River and the inland waterway network are of benefit to the entire nation, and a second lock is essential if the river is to remain open in the event of a vessel accident.

A new dam and a 1,200-foot lock are being constructed at federal expense two miles downstream from the present deteriorating Alton locks and dam. The same rationale for the two facilities applies as well to the third unit, a 600-foot lock.

Assistant Army Secretary William R. Glanelli, who heads the Corps of Engineers, said last week that the federal administration wants to alter this approach markedly.

It wants the second lock and all other navigation projects to be financed totally from private, state or local sources. He said the administration would lend 25 percent initially to begin construction but wants it paid back.

Glanelli sees this as consistent with the administration's plan to shift the cost of water projects away from the federal government.

He was interviewed after appearing before the Congressional water resources subcommittee, which is reviewing Corps funding requests for projects in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. Committee members opposing his stand include Cong. Robert A. Young, Maryland Heights, Mo., Democrat.

Young and other backers of a second lock fear that slamming the door on federal funds would kill the proposal or, at the very least, significantly delay it and increase its cost.

Corps officials conceded that the cost of the second lock would rise by as much as $80 million if Congress declined to authorize the project within 12 months. The present estimate is $200 million, while the combined cost of the dam and main lock is $875 million.

Young foresees inequities, predicting that wealthy states would have good navigation systems while poorer regions, including the Missouri area, would suffer if the administration's policy prevailed.

Glanelli defended the termination of federal financing of commercial navigation, commenting, "We don't believe our proposals would have drastic adverse impacts on waterway traffic, shippers or regional growth. We believe waterway traffic would continue to grow but at a slightly lower rate."

"The administration's navigation cost recovery proposals are examples of its objective to recover the costs of improvements from beneficiaries. In this case the users of the system. In addition, the fully marketable nature of navigation provides a basis for non-federal sponsors to finance a major portion of their cost."

Cong. Young's response: "What is the federal role in the waterway transportation system if everything is left up to the local governments? How do you define the local beneficiaries of a project that is national in scope?"

Cost apportionment problems could be so immense that the federal stand comes close to representing a complete abdication of responsibility for the waterways.

Illustrating the apportionment dilemma was separate related Congressional testimony the same week, dealing with proposed fees for Coast Guard services.

William A. Croelman, president of National Marine Service, Inc., St. Louis, said Congress should not let budgetary considerations—including hastily changed fees—defeat a long-planned inland transportation policy.

Testifying for the American Waterways Operators, he voiced concern over how users would pay for the Coast Guard.

Noting that the Coast Guard is trying to allocate to various users the specific costs of services it performs, Croelman said the accounting system—corresponding to Congressional authorization and appropriation requests—is highly inappropriate for accurately apportioning costs of services.

He cited the Coast Guard's demonstration fee schedule, which indicates how fees for various services would be structured.

"The initial inspection for certification of a tank barge would cost $19,200 per barge. In contrast, the American Bureau of Shipping, for the same service, is presently charging $3,600. Can the Coast Guard's reasonable administrative and enforcement costs justify this large disparity?"

"Perhaps the cost is due to the Coast Guard's maintenance function. Its capability is of much benefit to the nation. In order to carry out its many roles and missions, the Coast Guard requires military and military training levels for these vessels."

"Not coincidentally, construction and operating costs of Coast Guard vessels are significantly higher than such costs for similar vessels built and manned by commercial operators."

"How can the government's desire to have military readiness and law enforcement capability, through continuous manning, fall only on waterway users?"

Already, Uncle Sam has recognized the unfairness and impracticality. When the Transportation secretary reviewed equity and economic impact, he reduced the domestic fishing industry because the fees would have been unacceptably high.

As Croelman sees it, "The inland and coastal barge and towing industry is facing its most serious economic hardship in more than 30 years. Through the inland waterways, more than one-third of the barge fleet is tied up."

"It seems the administration has not considered equity or economic impact. Its proposals to impose additional cost recovery through deep-draft and shallow-draft user fees."

Secretary Drew Lewis has said that one of the major concepts underlying the cost recovery principle is fairness.

"We have to understand why the department is applying this principle to only one of its agencies, without advocating recovery of the costs of other services within the department. It should recover the costs from users of the services of all its agencies, rather than singling out only one."

The exchange came after Mayor Echols reported a total of 1,074 city stickers has been purchased to date by Venice residents, representing $2,565 in funds.

The stickers must be displayed on all motor vehicles, including motorcycles, pickup trucks, recreational vehicles and automobiles in the city.

City Clerk Robert W. Stevens said that, in the past, the city engineer has been reimbursed by the city for his training period.

The mayor said the city has no certain policy on compensatory time and told aldermen the time has come for such a policy.

Flask, who is chairman of the negotiating committee, said his committee has been working on a compensatory time policy, but has been unable to reach a conclusion on the current contract talks before presenting such an ordinance.

Such an ordinance may now reach the council floor before negotiations are completed, it was indicated.

Venice agrees to detour

of the Press-Record

What could have proved a major stumbling block in starting preliminary work leading up to critical repairs at the Broadway underpass in Venice was easily smoothed over at Tuesday night's meeting of the Venice City Council when aldermen agreed to several conditions imposed by the Madison City Council.

The Madison council ratified an agreement with the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) on a section of Biessell Street at the Venice last week, concerning resurfacing work to be performed by Madison on a section of Biessell Street.

In granting approval, however, the Madison council stipulated that Venice must provide 50 percent of the manpower required for the resurfacing project and also reimburse Madison 50 percent of all incidental expenses, such as costs of gasoline and oil.

The state has agreed to pay for all materials used in the project.

The stipulations approved by Venice aldermen Tuesday night were not part of the formal document previously voted by the Venice City Council at its June 1 meeting.

State authorities are resurfacing Biessell Street as the alternate traffic route, linking Illinois Route 3 to Madison and Venice, where the Broadway underpass near Route 3 is closed in mid-August for an estimated 90-day period.

At that time, IDOT is to make repairs to the underpass, which has been plagued by excessive runoff of water and poor drainage during heavy rains and has created a serious traffic hazard.

Proposed repairs by the state include rebuilding collapsed storm sewers and reconstructing the subsurface drainage grid system beneath the pavement.

Resurfacing and widening of Biessell and its intersection with Klein Street must be accomplished by Aug. 1, 1982, according to the agreement between IDOT and the two local communities.

Concern about the apparent sales of Venice city vehicle licenses (city stickers) was expressed, and Mayor Tyrone Echols noted that First Ward Alderman John T. Flieg believes some points in the covering ordinance should be updated.

Venice City Attorney Lawrence T. Hartman agreed, saying, "The sooner we can get it done, the better off we'll be. But, I don't think it can afford this year's (city stickers) as it's on a fiscal year basis," he added.

A resident of the Second Ward, seated in the audience, contended, "There are at least 80 people in the Second Ward, including police and firemen, who haven't got city stickers on their vehicles. There's about $5,000 worth of stickers right ahead."

Venice Police Chief Farris Smith replied that city stickers went up from $3 to $5 on June 1 and that "a drive to crack down on those violating the ordinance is ahead."

Feels Illinois is not playing by the rules

To the Editor:

It is sad to read Letters to the Editor in which women ask to be treated as second class citizens. How sad it is that some people think an amendment that says, "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex," is a "bad piece of legislation." Why then are some of our citizens so threatened by the idea of treating women as equal participants in our society?

Some people have expressed concern about changing the three-fifths rule in the Illinois legislature instead of the three-fifths rule in the U.S. Constitution.

It would appear that Illinois legislators regret the freeing of black slaves and the establishment of child labor laws, because neither of those amendments would have passed under the three-fifths rule. Had they done so, our Constitution would never have been ratified. The framers of the U.S. Constitution could hardly have intended a ratification procedure so extreme that its application would have nullified the Constitution itself.

Illinois did not require the supermajority vote of three-fifths until 1970. Less than half of the amendments to our U.S. Constitution would have passed in Illinois if the three-fifths rule had been in effect prior to 1970.

Miss Hotson is honored

Trudie B. Hotson, daughter of Bernice E. Hotson and the late Roger G. Hotson, received a master of science degree in education at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville commencement exercises held last week.

Miss Hotson is a graduate from Granite City High School South and received her B.S. in Anthropology from SIUE in June, 1980.

Guests were received at the home of her mother. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hotson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schubert, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hawk, Sheila Kane, Kelly Stotz, Kristy Kurus, Kitty Voss, Edna Jones, Wanda Hotson, Edna Bickel, Ida Hereford, Allen Phillips, Joy Williams, John Bracamonte, Phillip Johnson and Theresa Johnson.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lane from Washington state and Rusty Joe, St. Louis. The honoree also was entertained at a dinner party given by her brother at Sonny and Char's Restaurant and Lounge after commencement.

Miss Hotson is the granddaughter of Ida Hereford and Wanda Hotson, both of Granite City.

SPRINGER GRADUATES

Robert Alan Springer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Springer of Granite City, received his bachelor of arts degree in music from the School of the Ozarks, Point Lookout, Mo., during commencement exercises May 23. Springer was one of 198 seniors in this year's graduation ceremony.

Weatherized homes save $2.4 million in 81

FACES 2 CHARGES
Sherry Houghton, 18, of Granite City, was charged by Collinsville police with driving while intoxicated and failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident late last week. Police said she drove her car over a traffic island and knocked down a traffic light pole at Belt Line Road and Route 157 in Collinsville.

More than 13,000 Illinois homes were weatherized in 1981 by the Weatherization Assistance Program, according to figures released by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) which administers the program in the state.

The Weatherization Program is designed to help conserve energy and offset the rising costs of home energy for those least able to pay, especially low-income elderly and handicapped people.

The program provides weatherstripping and caulking; attic floor and wall insulation; installation of storm doors and windows, and other minor repairs to home owners and renters who meet eligibility guidelines established by the Federal Office of Management and Budget. Households weatherized in 1981 saved over $2.4 million in the first year. The savings for these homes will continue to mount in years to come, especially in light of rising energy costs.

DCCA has committed $15.7 million to 1982's Weatherization Program.

The program is carried out locally by community-based organizations in all 102 Illinois counties.

"The Weatherization Program is an important factor in Illinois' economic development objective," said DCCA Director Peter B. Fox. "The state is working hand-in-hand with local governments, community organizations and private businesses to provide this valuable service. This kind of cooperation is what "Illinois, Inc." - the state's job and development effort - is all about."

Anyone seeking more information should contact the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs at 320 West Washington, Springfield, Illinois 62706 or call DCCA's toll-free energy hotline 1-800-252-8943.

Veterans get 7.4 percent pension increase

More than 600,000 veterans and their survivors will be getting larger Veterans Administration pension checks on July 1 — the result of a 7.4 percent increase in the government's cost of living index. Some 1.9 million VA pensioners are affected in some way by the cost of living index.

Pensions are paid to veterans totally and permanently disabled from circumstances unrelated to their military service. They are paid also to survivors of veterans who are in need. Unlike compensation paid to those disabled because of military service, pensions are affected by income from other sources.

The 600,000 who will get increases in June (payable July 1) are those who are receiving benefits under the "improved" VA pension plan inaugurated by Congress in 1978. The plan links VA pension rates to adjustments in social security payments. Before the change, an individual's pension was subject to reduction, each time social security benefits increased.

After the business meeting, prizes were awarded. Mayme Boyer was presented the mystery package and Elizabeth Ramey was given the special prize.

The next meeting, a social, will be held at the VFW Hall on June 24.

Paddler swim coach eyes championships...(again)

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Swimming for a championship team is a challenge as any member of the Paddlers swim team would surely admit. Having won the Southwest Illinois Swim Association (SWISA) title in 1980 and 1981, Celeste Sonnenberg, Paddlers coach, is already looking toward this year's championships on August 7.

Because the title meet is only six weeks away, Miss Sonnenberg sets her sights on the championships from the beginning and she tells her swimmers to do the same.

"I tell them that when you're on top everybody's out to get you," she said. Swimmers are also told they have to do their share to aid the team score. "They usually come through," she said of her team as she glanced at the pool where each lane was filled with swimmers doing laps.

Sometimes, however, team members become discouraged. Either they don't finish with a good time or more often they do not beat a particular person. "I'd rather have them say they bettered their time than I didn't beat so and so. I think it's the natural instinct of a kid to want to beat their friends," Miss Sonnenberg said.

When swimmers get discouraged, Miss Sonnenberg has a couple of remedies. While the usual pep talk helps, in some cases she decides to have the swimmer work on a different stroke. Competition starts June 22 at Paddlers against the Sunset Hills Country Club of Edwardsville. The physical and mental preparation have already started.

In order to help keep the blues away, the swimmers perform a mental exercise before each event. "They're supposed to go off somewhere and think about what they're supposed to be doing. It's hard to keep it in perspective (when they are swimming) because they have to worry about every part of their body. They're working every muscle."

"I'd rather have them say they've bettered their time than I didn't beat so and so. I think it's the natural instinct for a kid to want to beat their friends."

Paddler swim coach

"A positive attitude helps, but that comes with age and practice," Miss Sonnenberg said.

Luckily, most of the team members at least have the practice, swimming throughout the year. "It's nice because it helps them stay in shape. It makes the summer easier," she said of winter swimming. But there are always a good share of newcomers on the Paddlers swim team.

Most often, potential swimmers will come to the pool seeking a place on the team. Sometimes friends bring other friends to join. Everybody, so long as they are a Paddlers club member, is accepted on one condition. "As long as they can swim a lap."

It takes about two weeks for Miss Sonnenberg and her assistant, Mike Burnworth, to tell which events each swimmer is best suited for. With 72 events in each meet, every swimmer can perform in two or three events.

At this point, with two weeks of practice out of the way, Miss Sonnenberg has several swimmers she can point to as outstanding returning competitors from five various age groups.

Mike Geske, a 15 year old is a freestyler who competed in the YMCA nationals at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. in April. "He's real good. I think he'll swim in college," Miss Sonnenberg said. She called Geske a "late bloomer."

"Boys usually peak in their late teens or early 20s. Girls peak younger," she said.

Swimming

Patty Martin, a 12 year old, also swam in the YMCA nationals. Miss Martin competes in the butterfly and swims during the winter months.

Laura Jennings, a 15 year old, who does not compete during the winter, is a freestyler. "She's the kind of kid who will come in everyday during the summer and work really hard for two hours to get back in shape really quick."

Jenny Baker is an 8-year-old freestyler who was high point champion in the SWISA championships last year. "She can do everything really good," Miss Sonnenberg said.

Larry Joe Curry is also an 8-year-old. While he just started swimming last year, Curry swam during the winter and should be a tough competitor during the summer season. Although Curry knew how to swim he did not have his strokes down. He competes in the freestyle. "He worked really hard (over the winter)."

Denise Darnell is a 17 year old. "She should be pretty good this year," Miss Sonnenberg said. Miss Darnell's most recent events are the butterfly and backstroke.

There are other outstanding members on the Paddlers swim team, all of whom work equally hard. "They swim out of laps (during the beginning practices). Some kids lift weights, or run for flexibility."

Miss Sonnenberg said she usually spends sometime talking about diet. "But I don't like to see kids on diets where they don't eat anything." She emphasizes cutting back on junk food.

Health is extremely important, but Miss Sonnenberg seems to believe most of the team members are dedicated enough to work on their own. The parents are also dedicated.

"The parents make a big difference. The parents take the initiative to come to meets. That inspires the kids to do well for their parents," Miss Sonnenberg said.

But in the end, the team members are basically on their own. Miss Sonnenberg said that each member sets his or her own goals for the season. At first, it is difficult for them to adjust to swimming a meter pool as the YMCA pools are measured in yards. Individual times often suffer at first.

"But I tell them if they improve their strokes their times will improve too. They're champions and they come through."

Paddlers' divers are few; but experienced, gutsy

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Gayle McCormick stood next to the swimming pool at Paddlers Swim Club and motioned to a member of the diving team to bring his arms out more on his next practice plunge.

It was an overcast day and Mrs. McCormick, who has contended with bad weather which has caused most of the team's practices to be cancelled over the past several weeks, was working fervently to get her team in shape for its first meet June 22 at home against Sunset Hills Country Club at 6:30 p.m.

The 13 and over group was practicing, but seemed more intent on playing and showing off for visitors. Indeed, they can afford a bit of showing off as last year's Southwest Illinois Swim Association (SWISA) champions.

To build a consistently strong team, Mrs. McCormick watches Paddlers members as they dive for leisure at the club. "Sometimes I'm out here during the day and I see someone with potential," she said. The coach will approach the would-be team member about joining the squad.

"Sometimes they approach me," she said.

Mrs. McCormick has been coaching the team since 1970 and has not experienced many problems recruiting team members. In fact, she coached world champion, Dave Lindsay, who got his start at Paddlers.

Presently, she is working with about nine divers in the 13 and over group and nine on the 12 and under squad. All are club members.

Until the first meet, the two groups will work on perfecting the five dives required by SWISA. Divers choose from among front, back, inward, half twist and half giant dives as requirements and then perform optional dives for three judges in regular meets and five in the SWISA championships, which will take place July 31 at Sunset Hills Country Club in Edwardsville.

As Mrs. McCormick will quickly point out, the season is only about six weeks long. With all the rained out practices, the divers do not have enough time to really perfect their dives, she said. The older group, however, has been competing longer and is closer to perfection in the required and optional dives.

Practice sessions, which are held Monday through Friday, started only a week ago. For the first few days, the groups went through a series of practice drills on the ground.

"They do alot of stretching. Especially for their stomachs," Mrs. McCormick said. Toe exercises are very important. She said the main strength for diving comes through stomach and leg muscles.

"The first thing—the hardest—is the approach." After work on approaches, Mrs. McCormick stresses the hurdle step and take off. After practice these necessities on the ground, the divers move to the board where they work on "jumps only for height," she said.

Fortunately, there are several returning team members who have such basics down pat.

Lisa Lilley, a 16 year old, has been diving since she was 12 and last year placed second in the SWISA championships in her age group. "Second by four-tenths of a point," Miss Lilley called from the board before she executed a fine front dive.

Miss Lilley's strong point comes with the required dives, said Mrs. McCormick.

Mark Donoff, a 14 year old, who has been diving since he was eight, last year won the SWISA championship in his age group. He and Miss Lilley seemed the most relaxed and playful of the group yet, when each came to the end of the board and prepared to dive, the kidding was over for a few minutes.

"Mark is good in a mixture of dives," Mrs. McCormick said. Donoff does various required dives quite well and also excels in certain optionals.

In the younger age group, Mrs.

Diving

McCormick said that Heather Crane, 12, Wendy Krimmel, 12 and Cathy Zeugin, 14 perform well consistently.

"Our weakest point this year is boys. We don't have enough of them. We need some older boys, but we have alot new ones," Mrs. McCormick said.

The dives are judged on form, entry and perfection of dive, Mrs. McCormick said. "Entry is one of the most important points. Take off, height and how a dive is executed are also important," she added.

Using the above mentioned criteria, dives are judged from one to 10. The dives scoring the highest, naturally, are the best dives.

One of the reasons the team might lack in having a large number of divers is the cost factor involved. Diving is an expensive sport. "Normally we don't have sponsors (who help defer some of the costs)," Mrs. McCormick said.

Dedication is also necessary and it must come from the parents as well as from the divers. Parents, Mrs. McCormick said, pay expenses out of their own pockets and also must drive the divers to various meets.

But divers must possess more than dedication. "It takes alot of self confidence on the board and a sense of balance (to dive)," Mrs. McCormick said.

"One reason diving is not as popular as swimming is that it takes a certain kind of person to dive. You have to have a strong sense of balance, timing and a lot of guts to get out on the board."

Guts are needed because divers often sustain injuries. Back injuries are common. Mrs. McCormick said that some divers are reluctant to return once they have been injured. Her team has, however, been fortunate. Bumps and leg scrapes are the extent of the injuries the Paddlers' team has had to deal with.

Injuries are not something a diver is prone to worry about as he or she gets ready to dive. Mrs. McCormick has her own method of getting her team ready for competition.

"I tell them to sit down alone and go through each dive in their head. I tell them to picture the dive being done perfectly to concentrate on the dive being done perfectly," she said.

More often than not, Gayle McCormick divers hit the water picture perfect.

Gayle McCormick making a point.

"One reason diving is not as popular as swimming is that it take a certain kind of person to dive. You have to have a strong sense of balance, timing and a lot of guts to get out on the board."

Soccer Club team prepares for national tourney

GOING TO NATIONAL TOURNEY.

An older, more experienced under 19 girls Granite City Soccer Club team will make their second appearance in as many years in the national soccer championships next week in Dallas, Tex.

Last year, the Granite City team finished fourth in the national tournament behind Massapequa Express of Massachusetts, Fram of Los Angeles, Calif. and the Dallas (Tex.) Defenders, last year's champions.

Despite last year's defeat in the first round, coach Bob Kurilla is optimistic about this year's competition.

"We're older this year, more experienced. Last year we were actually the youngest team competing. We had 16 and 17 year olds, while the teams we competed against had 17 and 18 year olds. This year our kids are older, stronger and I believe we're a better team, more confident," Kurilla said.

Confidence and national exposure are something the local girls will have over their opponents. Of the four teams that made it to this year's championships, they are the only team that is making a repeat performance in the three-year-old event.

"That's definitely a plus for us this year," Kurilla said of competing in last year's championship. "I think the girls were nervous last year, caught up in the grandeur of the event," he said.

The Granite City Soccer Club team, 45-4-12, earned the right to compete in this year's national championship by defeating the Untouchables of Collinsville 1-0 on May 16 to take the Illinois Cup championship.

On their second leg in their quest for a national championship game, the girls annihilated a team from Wadsworth, Ohio, 9-0 on May 23 in a Midwest sub-regional game.

In a second sub-regional game held on June 5, the girls defeated a second Ohio team, from Centerville, 2-0.

The next day, June 6, in the Midwest Regional championship game, the Granite City girls defeated Katus of St. Louis 2-1 to secure a spot in the national championships. With a victory over Katus, the girls are 13-state champions, a feat which now is old hat for the girls from Granite City.

With two Midwest championships neatly tucked away, Kurilla and his team are looking even harder at the one that got away — the national championship.

"I don't have any doubt that we can do it," Kurilla said. "When you get to that level of competition, though, everyone's the same. If you get the breaks you win."

"We can do it. The core of these girls have played together for 10 years."

"Our defensive, I believe, is our strongest point. In all of our Cup games, they've allowed just one goal," Kurilla said.

Kurilla specifically mentioned Carolyn Horbelt and Terry Schuler as reasons for the defensive's success.

In the opening round, the girls will face the Avenio Flyers of Seattle, Wash. The other two teams in this year's championship are the Bradock Road team of Virginia and the Dallas Slings.

The girls will leave St. Louis Wednesday, June 23, for the first round game against the Flyers on next Friday at 6 p.m. at Dallas' Franklin Field.

Civics hold off surging Lites, now 9-3 on season

By AL BARNES

The confrontation between the Belleville Bud Lites and the Southwestern Illinois Civics, Monday night at the beautifully manicured Granite City South High baseball field was so close and thrilling that it accomplished something very unusual.

It was so tense that most of the fans in the bleachers switched off their radios over which they were listening to another cliff-hanger, the 2-1 victory by the Cardinals over the Metro Expos.

In the role of the Red Birds' Bruce Sutter, for the streaking Civics was their elongated (6-7) righthander, Jerry Deml, who came on in the top of the eighth frame with his teammates holding on grimly to a one-run lead.

He did the job, OK, and preserved the Civics' advantage for a 5-4 victory. The Civics now are 9-3 pending the outcome of their game with the Knights of St. Louis.

The Civics won't meet many better and tougher foes than the Belleville Bud Lites, a team which is setting (and leading) the pace in the excellent Montclair League with a 2-2 mark and, counting their loss to Manager Bobby Hughes' nine, 11-5 overall.

Except for the Civics' big, five-run outburst in the second frame, Belleville's rugged righthander, Mike Tamm, looked invincible as he curbed the winners on six hits...and no runs...the final seven innings.

Matching him almost pitch-for-pitch was young Tom Kloeckner, a southpaw from Albers, Ill., who gained his second (no defeat) victory of the campaign. He held the Bud Lites hitless for three innings, but was solved by Buds in the next five innings and four runs. However, only two of those tallies were earned.

The most exciting thing about young Kloeckner's mound performance was his stinginess with bases-on-balls. In fact, he was called on only 26 bad (balls) pitches. In his last outing he fanned 10 and issued only 10 balls...an almost unbelievable accomplishment.

But, the relief job by the Civics' Jerry Deml was even more mind-boggling: after the firing Kloeckner was tagged with a leadoff single by the Buds' centerfielder, Austin Kattenbraker.

Hughes gave the nod to Deml, frantically warming up in the bull pen. His first hitter was Jim Nunden, former Belleville West star and All-American at the University of Missouri, St. Louis.

Next up, the Buds' second best hitter, Brian Barton, fanned after batting Deml to the full count. The crowd, largely Civics' fans, cheered Big Jerry's every pitch.

And, now every radio in the stands were turned off.

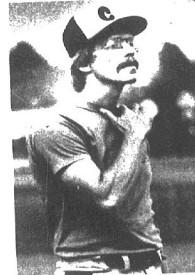

Next up, with two outs, was an unknown, at least locally, Chip Krause. Deml made him wait as he housekeepped the mound. Finally, came the pitch and Krause flied to George Vogel in right for the inning's final out.

The Civics threatened to break the game wide open in the half of the eighth as Jim Greenwald of Granite City led off the frame with the third of 3-for-four hits.

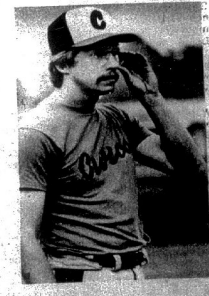

Vogel, who has been struggling just a little with the plate, crowded the plate and was nicked for a free pass to first. Hughes now laid down a perfect bunt toward third base, but it turned out not to be a hit but a fielder's choice which failed to nip the churning Greenwald into the hot corner sack.

It looked like the end for the Buds' Ismail, but the ex-McKendree called on all the wiles he knows and fanned hot-hitters, Keith Hoskinson and Rusty Hilgenkamp. Next up, Tim Kavanaugh apparently had solved Tamm, but not this time, even though he had doubled and singled against him. This time, a beautiful change-up induced Kavanaugh to pop up to Krause at first base.

Friday night, the Civics will return to the South ball yard for a team from the Illinois Inter-City League, Edwardsville's Nationals, with the first pitch at 7:30 p.m.

Pat Peterson displays baseball's "silent language."

So, the Buds came up in the top of the ninth still trailing by only one run. Deml, with the tension mounting second by second, fanned the first two batters to face him, first John Dozier and then pinch-hitter Marty Maritz.

Leadoff man for the Buds, John Goldschmidt, gave the losers a ray of hope as Deml appeared a little too nonchalant and grooved one right smack over the plate. Scarborough played it smart and held him to a single.

Brian Barton, with the count two strikes and a ball, watched forlornly as Deml sneaked the third strike, again with one which appears to come from third base.

Some one turned the radio back on to catch the end of the Cardinals and Expos just as the red Birds pulled the victory out of their hats.

The nice crowd at South saw just as exciting a game as those fans at Busch Stadium and were at least 420 richer.

GC soccer teams prepare for Cup tourney Saturday

Three Granite City soccer teams will travel to various northern Illinois sites to compete in the Illinois Cup tournament this weekend. One team, Rukowski Construction, a girls team, will travel to Wheaton for the championship game. Also a member of the Metro League, Foreman Brick has posted a perfect record of 3-0. Much of that success can be directly attributed to soccer enthusiast and coach Laszlo Seles.

The third Granite City team, C.D. Peters, is an under 14 girls team. Like Rukowski, they will play in Palatine. According to Ruben Mendoza, coach of the team, the girls will meet a team from Hoffman Estates on Saturday at 9 a.m. Should they win their first game, the girls will play again at 3 p.m.

Former GC High athletes praised

Five former Granite City High School athletes were recognized recently for their contributions to the 1982 edition of the Lewis and Clark Jr. College baseball team.

Lewis and Clark coach Scott Posey praised Danny Patterson, Kevin Sykes, Bob Ford, Keith Burton and Jody Fenton for their participation and contributions to this year's team. Lewis & Clark, a member of the Midwest Jr. College Athletic Conference, finished the season with a 26-23 overall record and a 12-6 conference record.

Patterson rose above the rest as he was chosen to the second all regional IV team as a designated hitter. Patterson's heroism at the plate lifted him to a .411 end of the season batting average. Patterson is a graduate of Granite City High School North.

When Sykes leaves Lewis & Clark he wants to be sure he's remembered. He's accomplished that this year by breaking four school records.

Sykes' name is in the record books for the most stolen bases in a season: 34, two more than the previous best; the most career stolen bases: 44, also two more than the previous best; most runs scored: 48, three more than the previous best and most walks: 32, three more than the previous best.

Sykes, who played second base for L&C, has been called "one of defensive players over at L&C" by coach Posey. Sykes is a graduate of Granite City High School South.

Ford played the outfield, Lewis & Clark this season. In addition to posting a .226 batting average, Ford proved his defensive potential on the mound as well as he posted a perfect 4-0 pitching record. Ford graduated from Granite North.

Posey praised Burton for a crisis. "Keith has had some problems, but when we needed him the most, he did a good time in crucial times," Posey said. Burton, who posted a 3-3 record on the mound this season, is a graduate of Granite City North.

The final hurler Posey mentioned was Fenton. Fenton, Posey said, did a fine job in relief for Lewis & Clark. Fenton, a southpaw who went 4-0 on the season, posted a 3-3 earned run average.

Patterson, Buer lift Tri-City to 13-8 win

WATERLOO — Dan Patterson and Rich Buer are living up to their roles of being the oldest and most experienced members of the Tri-City American Legion baseball team.

The two combined for seven runs batted in in the Triple's 13-8 win over Waterloo in a District 22 game here Monday.

Although Tri-City was out of 10-9, Waterloo committed five errors and numerous walks to allow Patterson and Buer to do their damage.

Patterson is leading Tri-City with a .667 batting percentage and 13 RBIs, but Buer's .556 average is equally as impressive considering the circumstances.

Buer injured his shoulder last June in an automobile accident, and did not play baseball until the opening of the Legion season.

"We expected Danny to do as well as he is because he played for Lewis and Clark Community College this year," Tri-City manager Al Yount said. "But Rich's batting is really surprising even though he hadn't played for almost a year."

Patterson did his damage in the sixth inning with a grand slam home run. With Tri-City trailing 7-6 that inning, Joe Schneckle hit a single and Bill Roe and John Linhart walked to load the bases for Patterson's blast.

In the seventh inning, Buer doubled and scored on a throwing error by the right fielder, George Jarvis, Schneckle and Roe all walked to load the bases. The pitcher picked off Schneckle at second, but Roe stole second and Jarvis scored on the wild throw by the catcher.

Roe scored on a wild pitch. "We got the key hits. Whoever was up there for us came through and got the hit, and the defense wasn't too bad either considering the win was blowing out," Yount said.

Patterson was 2-for-2 and Buer and Schneckle were both 2-for-3 for Tri-City, now 5-1 overall and 3-1 in District 22.

Mark Clark was the winning pitcher for Tri-City. Clark took over for Schneckle in the sixth inning and gave up one hit and two walks while striking out three.

Tri-City's game with Highland was postponed Tuesday because of rain. The game has been rescheduled for July 11 at Granite City South.

Legion loses

For the Glen Carbon American Legion baseball team, victory seems to always be so close, but still so far away. Dropping its record to 4-8, Glen Carbon was defeated by Belleville, 6-4 Monday at the opposition's field.

About a fourth of the way into the season, the games are all beginning to look the same on the score sheets for Glen Carbon. There is generally one big inning for the team. This time it was the fourth.

"But it should have been bigger," said Glen Carbon coach Larry Correy.

After scoring four runs to tie the game, Glen Carbon was faced with a bases loaded, two-out situation. On a wild pitch, the runner took off, but was thrown out at home.

Belleville scored one run each in the sixth and seventh to win the game.

Dedicate Etzkorn Bandstand

The bandstand at Edwardsville City Park was named the Etzkorn Bandstand during a dedication ceremony June 10. Etzkorn earned the respect and friendship of many Quad-Cityans during his long musical career.

A bronze plaque was unveiled during the event, which commemorated Etzkorn's 50 years as a member of the Edwardsville Municipal Band. He served as the band's director for 25 years before his death April 21 after a long illness.

In addition to teaching in the Edwardsville School system for 36 years, Etzkorn implemented the entire modern music program in that school district before retiring earlier this year.

Etzkorn won international acclaim by appearing in the International Who's Who in Music and Musicians Directory as well as performing in three different symphony orchestras.

DR. M. G. BAGGOT

Lectures in Dublin

Dr. M. Gerard Baggot of Granite City gave the John Sheppard Memorial Lecture in May at the Royal College of Physicians in Dublin, Ireland.

Among the distinguished medical personages comprising the audience were Dr. Joseph Barnes, the United Nations Consultant on Tropical Diseases, and Dr. Malachi Powell, governor of the Powell dynasty in medicine, has three sons, a daughter, a daughter-in-law and a son-in-law who are doctors.

One son, Dr. David Powell, formerly of the Mayo Clinic, is married to a former Miss World, who represented Pakistan in the international beauty competition.

At the time she won the title, Mrs. Powell, now a practicing physician with her husband in Dublin, explained that she wished to continue her profession as a doctor and was not interested in pursuing a proposed movie and modeling career, Dr. Baggot said.

The Granite City physician's lecture was delivered in the Royal College beneath the statues of many Irish greats in medical history, such as Robert Graves, Robert Colles and Dominic Corrigan, among others.

Above, guests enjoy a catered meal in a spare 60 by 30-foot office in the facility which is designed for future leasing to a company wishing to locate at the port.

At the left, visitors tour the spacious lobby and offices. The building has 8,000 square feet and cost approximately a half-million dollars to construct. C.D. Peters was the contractor.

O'Connor calls for ending Blue Cross special status

At the meeting of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners in Philadelphia, Illinois Insurance Director Philip R. O'Connor released a staff report that calls for an end to the privileged legal status of Blue Cross-Blue Shield plans and their conversion to mutual life, accident and health insurance companies.

The report focuses on Health Care Service Corporation of Illinois (Blue Cross-Blue Shield), which operates under an entirely different set of groundrules from other insurance carriers, O'Connor said, although they perform the same function. This is because HCSC is authorized by a separate enabling statute which imposes restrictions on its operations, but designates it as a charitable, tax-exempt organization.

The report indicates that the framework for Blue Cross deserves a special position among all insurers because it is unique, and second, that consumers will benefit from the additional restrictions on Blue Cross operations. These are both myths, O'Connor said.

"Although HCSC is the largest single accident and health writer in Illinois, its market share is only 27 percent and declining. Our regulatory structure should not be directed at treating HCSC as, if it were a monopoly."

O'Connor cited three areas where the regulatory differences for HCSC and other carriers are most extreme: financial requirements and rate approval, allowable lines of business and medical cost containment requirements. The Department of Insurance must approve many of HCSC's rates, while those of other carriers respond competitively to the economic climate.

The 25-page staff report concluded that Blue Cross subscribers would benefit if privileged status were removed and HCSC were made to operate as a mutual insurance company.

"The price of inconsistent regulation is paid by the consumer," O'Connor said. "Erratic rate increases, unresponsive policies and claims practices, financial distress — can all be symptoms which point to a non-competitive posture in the marketplace."

The staff report is the product of several months of research into all facets of HCSC's business. It examined the logic behind HCSC's special status and the effects on HCSC and its subscribers if it became a mutual company. The study reached the conclusions:

— The historical reasons for treating Blue Cross differently are no longer valid.

— The rate approval process required by law is an ineffective, poor substitute for competition and negatively affects the marketing of certain coverages.

In spite of the department's strong, long-standing regulation of HCSC's cost-containment activities, these have had less effect than would factors such as competitive pressures and groups' insistence on the level of HCSC efforts.

— Mutualization would benefit HCSC and subscribers in the long term by increasing the company's financial stability and allowing it to expand into other lines of business, especially by allowing packages of life and health insurance for group insureds.

— Removal of its special status would give carriers an equal footing on which to compete and induce HCSC to behave in a more modern fashion," O'Connor said. "This is critical if companies are to be equipped to respond to the increasingly volatile health care economic climate."

O'Connor released the study in connection with the summer meeting of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC), an organization of state insurance departments which fosters consistency in insurance regulation among

VENICE ARRESTS OC MAN IN MADISON

John Rocha Jr., 29, of 2803 Buxton Ave., was arrested by Venice officers and charged with driving while under the influence (DUI) of alcohol last week.

The officers reported following Rocha's vehicle through Venice to the 900 block of Madison Avenue, Madison, where the arrest was made.

Rocha was lodged for a period time in the Madison city jail, due to several immigration suspects being held at the Venice police facility.

Seminar on avoiding many small business pitfalls

Entrepreneurship, a two-day seminar on the opportunities and pitfalls of operating a small business, is scheduled June 28 and 29 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The seminar is open to educators, vocational counselors, advisors and others who help establish and operate small businesses. Admission is free, but registration is limited.

Arthur E. Hoover, SIUE management professor who operates his own Missouri-based investment firm and has 30 years experience in consulting and education, will be the instructor. Topics will range from finding a good business idea and physical facility to financing, records-records-records and marketing.

Hoover believes most business failures — more than 200,000 each year — are chiefly caused by bad management and underfinancing.

The seminar meets at 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily in Building III, Room 3335, on the Edwardsville campus, sponsored by the Center for Management Studies and the Office of Occupational Education.

Further information and registration forms are available from CMS at 1-692-2668.

COLOR TV STOLEN

Henry Leonard, 641 Mercedes Ave., Venice, told police last week that he was gone from his house about an hour and returned to find the door open and a 19-inch color television set missing.

Like 4:18 ... "And He Came to Nazareth."

There are times when we must remember why Christ came. To refresh our faith, to renew our consecration, we must meditate on the Holy Scriptures. Faith comes by hearing and hearing by the Word of God.

Christ entered into the synagogue and read from the book of Isaiah. He publicly declared his mission from the Heavenly Father with those most gracious words:

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, he has anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he has sent me to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised. To preach the acceptable year of the Lord."

Somewhere in this declaration your need is mentioned. Jesus came to meet that need for you. Let Him do it.

4-H arts, craft show Saturday

The public is being invited to a 4-H Arts and Crafts Show, Saturday morning, from 9 to 10 a.m. at the Farm Bureau Auditorium in Edwardsville. It will be followed by project and activity demonstrations, a horticulture demonstration and public speaking contest. All 4-H members are being urged to participate and are asked to submit names to the 4-H Extension office and consult the show rules for more information.

All 4-H members may bring in arts and crafts projects they are working on or have completed which they wish to show others or have questions about. Older 4-H members will help provide answers. Anyone may give an action demonstration. There will be only one other opportunity for action demonstrations to be evaluated, a requirement for State Fair entries this year, and that will be at St. Clair Square on July 10.

At approximately 10 a.m., formal project and activity demonstrations will be given. The winner, who will compete at State Fair, will be selected. These demonstrations may be on any project or activity. The horticulture demonstration and public speaking contest will follow. Those interested in competing may give presentations in five categories — artistic (flower arranging), art (ways to use fruits, vegetables), marketing, producing and landscaping. Speeches may be given as illustrated talks or non-illustrated speeches. Winners in all categories will advance to the state contest at the University of Illinois on June 29, the day judging teams go to state.

SIUE celebrates 25th anniversary

A special emphasis has been designated for each month of the 25th Anniversary celebration scheduled to begin in September at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, according to David C. Huntley, director of the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museums and chairman of the 25th Anniversary task force.

Huntley said today that the University calendar has been finalized for the nine-month celebration which will begin with a convocation on the Morris Quadrangle on Sept. 30 and conclude with commencement ceremonies on June 10, 1983, in the University's new Multipurpose Building. The new building, under construction since May, 1981, is scheduled for completion during the spring of 1983.

Huntley said the overall theme of the anniversary year will be "Sharing the Past, Shaping the Future." The special emphasis designated for the various months are:

October—alumni and their achievements; November—academic contributions; December—the University as a cultural and entertainment resource; January—the Friends Organization, Foundation, and giving to the university; February—prospective students and recruitment; March—fine arts, with special emphasis on theater, dance and music; April—awards and special recognitions. May—the founding of the university; and June—commencement and the future.

More than 125 events and activities have been included in the 1982-83 calendar, and other tentative dates are expected to be confirmed in the near future, Huntley said. He indicated that planning for the observance is in the final stages, and an ad hoc steering committee has been appointed by President Earl Larson to implement the technical aspects of the program. The members of the committee include:

Wilma Jene Bond, executive secretary to the president; Robert Bruker, assistant to the president; Jack Drda, assistant director of Supporting Services; Justina Goch, coordinator of the Office of Conferences and Institutes; Robert Koepke, coordinator of Area Development; Rich Madison, director of the University Center and University Housing; and Sam L. Smith, director of University News Services.

The task force headed by Huntley consists of 12 members representing all constituencies of the university. The group has been developing plans for the anniversary celebration since the beginning of fall quarter.

Post Office suggests different mail options

By JACK D. WILKINS

Postmaster When you need to send valuable or important papers through the mail, the Postal Service recommends you understand what registered, insured and certified mail can do for you. By becoming familiar with these service options offered by the Postal Service, your mail will receive the best handling and the most cost-effective delivery. Registered, insured and certified mail all give you the customized services needed for mailing that special letter or package. Registered mail is the safest way to send valuables. It offers special handling for your letter or package mailed at first-class rates. You receive a receipt when the material is taken to the post office. The movement of the piece is then monitored from the point of acceptance to delivery. All irreplaceable articles, regardless of value, when the item is mailed for more than $400, should be sent by registered mail.

Jewelry, stocks and checks or money orders for large amounts also should be sent by registered mail. This type of service provides protection against loss or damage. The full value of the mailing must be declared when the item is mailed for security and insurance purposes. The registration fee includes insurance protection up to $50,000 for domestic mail.

The fees for registered mail depend upon the value of the material being mailed. For instance, if the value of the package is from $100 to $500, the cost is $3.50.

A return receipt costs 60 cents extra, but it will allow the sender to have a written receipt of when and to whom the item was delivered. For a return receipt indicating to whom, the date and the address where the item was delivered, the fee is 70 cents.

Restricted delivery service is also available with registered mail. It allows delivery only to the addressee, or to someone who is authorized in writing to receive mail for the addressee.

Insured mail is a good bet if you are sending birthday, wedding or other gifts, or fragile items. First-class mail, priority, third and fourth-class mail may be insured. Insurance, available for merchandise only, can be purchased for materials mailed which are valued at less than $400. Insurance rates, like registered mail rates, vary according to the value of the material being sent. If articles are insured for more than $15, a receipt of delivery is signed by the recipient and filed at the delivery post office. The insurance enables you to receive payment for domestic mail that has been lost, rifled or damaged. You may request a return receipt or restricted delivery when sending something insured for more than $15.

Certified mail is the best buy if you are sending important letters, insurance forms, contracts or bids for business contracts mailed at the first-class rate. At 75 cents plus the charge for postage, certified mail costs less than registered mail.

It should be used when the sender requires a receipt as proof of mailing. The coupon receipt is postmarked to establish the date of delivery. A record of the delivery is also kept at the addressee's post office for two years, but no record is kept at the office from which you mailed the material. You may request a return receipt or restricted delivery with certified mail.

Certified mail service is provided only for first-class or priority mail containing no intrinsic value, and insurance is not available.

Certified mail labels, which can be obtained from your local post office, must be completed by the customer for his type of mail.

Plan to convert Dixon center into a prison

Governor James R. Thompson announced last week that he has approved the conversion of the Dixon Developmental Center to a 750-bed medium security prison, with an additional 150-bed special treatment unit.

The special treatment unit will provide services to inmates in need of specialized psychiatric and psychological services.

When I announced the closing of this facility in February, I put the city of Dixon on the list for a conversion of the facility to a prison. The residents of this region have shown the interest and support for a prison that is necessary for siting a prison in this area," the governor said.

"I also want to assure the parents and relatives of those in the Dixon Developmental Center that we have the best interest of the residents in mind in the closing of this facility. We have a system in place that will help residents in their transfer and make sure that those residents go to facilities that are comparable or superior care."

Thompson said a $30 million appropriation is included in the Fiscal 1983 budget for conversion of the center to a prison. That conversion will begin, he said, when some 600 residents have been moved to better facilities.

At that point, the governor said, full occupancy by prisoners will take 18 to 24 months. At full staffing, the prison will employ between 700 and 725 persons.

The governor also said the new prison in Dixon will allow the families of prisoners from Cook County better access to family members who are serving time. Thompson said that he favors a prison in northern Illinois for this reason.

The Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities currently is under an injunction by a Cook County Circuit Court Judge preventing the transfer of residents or the closing of the institution as a developmental disabled center. However, the state has filed an appeal with the Illinois Supreme Court, seeking to overturn that ruling.

"I have confidence that the Illinois Supreme Court will see that the state is doing what is best not only for the residents, but for the mental health system and the correctional system in this state," the governor said.

Thompson recently announced plans to convert the Bowen Developmental Center in Harrisburg to a 300-bed correctional facility. He also has under review the selection of another prison site from among 22 cities, including Dixon, that will house 750 prisoners in a medium-security setting. Another 750-bed medium-security prison was announced for Vienna.

A charge of criminal damage to an auto was filed against Charles D. Wilkins, 20, of 2155 Waterman Ave., after a 1974 auto's left rear quarter panel was kicked and dented at 8 p.m. Monday at Waterman and Franklin avenues. Owner is Dennis Simpson, 2412r Madison Ave. Wilkins was freed on $102 bail.

Gore appointed Education School dean

The appointment of Dr. Joseph Gore as dean of the School of Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was announced by Dr. Barbara J. Teters, vice president and provost.

Dr. Gore, who has been acting dean of the School since June, 1981, will assume his new responsibilities June 1, subject to the approval of the SIUE Board of Trustees. A member of the SIUE faculty since 1967 and associate dean since 1972, he was named acting dean when Dr. Fred Carver resigned to accept a position as dean of the College of Education of the University of Northern Iowa.

Dr. Teters said the appointment climaxes an extensive national search which produced a large number of nominations and applications and resulted in five candidates from five states being brought to the campus for interviews. Dr. Gore was one of two finalists recommended to the Dean of Education Search Advisory Committee.

"We are very pleased with this appointment," Dr.

of the Search Advisory Committee, and all members of the committee for their extraordinary service."

Prior to joining the SIUE faculty, Dr. Gore served as an instructor and assistant professor at Harris Teachers College in St. Louis and as assistant professor and director of the Secondary Education Program at Washington University. At SIUE, Dr. Gore was named a full professor in 1974 in the department of secondary education, and he has served as director of a number of programs, including Teacher Education, the Doctoral Program, and several programs funded with grants from the U.S. Office of Education, the Office of Economic Opportunity, and the Office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

As associate dean for instruction at SIUE, Dr. Gore has responsibility for certification, program development, Teacher Education Program accreditation approval, graduate programs, the Doctoral Program, and follow-up evaluations on graduates, and he served as chairman of the Programs and Standards Committees and the Basic Educational Studies Committee, and as an ex-officio member of the Academic Affairs Committee.

In addition, Dr. Gore has been author or co-author of many publications and has presented research papers at numerous national conferences. He has been recognized for his activities in instruction and instructional development, particularly in urban education, micro-teaching, teacher education centers, and curriculum processes. He also has chaired and served on a number of University committees and has been a consultant to area schools and a member of North Central Association Visiting Committees and other groups in conducting program reviews in various schools and universities.

A native of St. Louis, Dr. Gore received his A.B. in education from Harris Teachers College and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in education from Washington University. He lives with his wife, Lorraine, in Florissant, Mo.

State expediting home mortgages

The state government is attempting to promote single-family home building, which has been lagging as a result of high interest rates and the impact of national and international recessions.

"New home construction is needed in Illinois and we have been working hard to change regulations in Washington that will make a tax-exempt bond offering possible," Gov. James R. Thompson says.

"We have now been notified by the U.S. Treasury Department that, at my request, federal rules have been changed to allow a $100 million tax-exempt bond offering for this purpose."

"This is the second time in two months that Thompson administration action has provided relief for home buyers and the home building industries," the governor asserted.

"Coupled with a change in Illinois Department of Insurance regulations made in April, a move that freed another $100 million in mortgage money, this decision will mean another step toward recovery in the housing industry," he said.

A shift in the U.S. Treasury regulations will allow the IHDA (Illinois Housing Development Authority) to determine the amount of bonds it can issue in any one year. Federal legislation sets limits on the amount of bonds a state can issue, but it also contained a provision that was unique to Illinois. That portion of the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980 said home-rule municipalities would have the first right to issue the bonds in amounts not to exceed the average of the previous three years' mortgage activity in the area.

By IHDA offering this bond issue, the bonding ceiling for home rule units of government will not be affected. The governor said that IHDA, the Home Builders Association of Illinois and the Illinois Association of Realtors told the federal government that the data requested could not be accurately determined. As a result, the governor asked Treasury to approve a different method. The new method will let IHDA calculate home-rule cities' bond units based on population, enabling IHDA to determine the legal limit for its bonds that can be issued. The Governor's Task Force on Homeownership has suggested that Illinois begin issuing single-family mortgage bonds.

"The hope of owning a home has become an elusive one for many first-time buyers," Thompson said. "This action is part of what we can do in Illinois to make a national problem easier to deal with — and ease the financial burden for people in our state who want to buy their first home."

National recognition for YMCA

The Tri-City Area YMCA received national recognition in the area of health, physical education and recreation at its recent Board of Directors meeting after successfully satisfying the standards of the multi-faceted criteria established by the National Council of the YMCA of the USA. This recognition, in the form of a certificate of eligibility, authorizes the Tri-City Area YMCA to participate in inter-association and championship YMCA competitions. Every three years, all YMCAs in the United States presently conducting health, physical education, recreation and competitive sports programs are required to examine their qualifications and make application to their state and regional organizations for a decision and subsequent authorization of eligibility to participate in formal representative sports competition. The local YMCA must be recognized by the National Council as a member association in good standing and nationally recognized.

$3.2 million grant given East St. Louis

Governor James R. Thompson announced Friday that the City of East St. Louis will receive $3.2 million in grant assistance to help redevelop the city's industrial corridor.

The funding is the culmination of a year-long effort by the state of Illinois, through the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, and the city of East St. Louis.

The project will be financed through a $2.3 million grant from the U.S. Economic Development Administration which will be matched by $900,000 in state and local funds.

"Senators Charles H. Percy and Alan J. Dixon played key roles in facilitating the approval of the grant application. It is anticipated that these funds will retain 450 jobs in the city of East St. Louis, and will create an additional 250 jobs within a two-year period," Thompson said.

"East St. Louis has suffered from chronic unemployment and will greatly benefit from this project."

"This combined effort is yet another example of how the Illinois, Inc. campaign works effectively by pooling the efforts and resources of government, business and labor to make Illinois the great state it is in which to live and work," added Thompson.

WATCH, WIG STOLEN
A burglar obtained a $250 pocketwatch, a $200 wig and $64 cash after removing a window screen this week at the home of Joe Lorton, 1838 Adams St.
